J. B. Stevenson et al vs. Wayne-twp School Board Is Important Case

FRITCH APPEAL IS UP

Berger Will To be Re-submitted at Later Date

Several important law suits will be submitted to the district court of appeals Wednesday when the three judges come here for the March term. The judges are William H. Middleton of Waverly, Roscoe J. Mauck of Gallipolis and Peter J. Blosser of Chillicothe.

One of the most important cases to be taken before the court is the appeal of J. B. Stevenson and others against the Wayne-twp school board of education from the decision handed down by Judge Harry S. Core that a bond issue for a school building that township had been legally passed and that the court could do nothing with the effort of the plaintiffs trying to prevent the issuance of bonds. Abernethy and Simkins represent the plaintiffs and C. A. Leist and E. L. Crist the school board.

FRITCH APPEAL

Another case is the appeal on error of Edward Fritch, Chester C. Bright and Leotus Bright, his wife, who were convicted of burglary and larceny in common pleas court in connection with theft of household goods at the cottage of Harry and Mal Daugherty in Monroe-twp. Bright is now being held by Franklin-co authorities after being bound over to the grand jury for a series of alleged robberies in Columbus. The trio are represented by Paul M. Herbert and D. B. Ulrey.

Another case is in the matter of the county ditch petitioned for by Ernest D. Blaine and others. This case was carried over from the last court of appeals here. Abernethy and Simkins and C. A. Weldon are interested in this suit.

BERGER WILL

The judges will come here from Logan where they are in session today.

Although it was reported that the Berger will appeal would be placed before the appeals court in this session, City Attorney Paul Adkins stated Tuesday that the case will probably not be submitted until the court sits in Chillicothe in April. The case has been taken to the appeals court by heirs of the late Frank Berger contesting the payment of a sum of money for hospital purposes in this city. C. A. Leist represents the heirs and Adkins with Meeker Terwilliger and George G. Adkins represent the city.

M'Sweeney and Baker Welfare Opinion Differ

COLUMBUS, O., March 24.—Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, and State Welfare Director John McSweeney today were in serious disagreement over the correct answer to Ohio's penal institution problem.

An eloquent defense of justice as administered by Ohio judges was delivered by the holder of the war portfolio in the late President Wilson's cabinet failed last night to divert the welfare director from his determination to remove much of the bench's sentence-fixing power and transfer it to a remodeled parole board.

BEFORE COMMITTEE

Baker appeared before the senate's committee in institutions to support a bill to prohibit the parole board from holding a man in prison beyond the judicial minimum sentence without consent of the court in which the trial was held. McSweeney announced that a conflicting bill through which his proposed parole board of four members would be permitted to ignore minimum sentences fixed by judges is a definite part of the state welfare department's program.

The bill for which Baker spoke had previously been discarded by the committee and Senator Roy J. Gillen (R) of Wellston had drawn up a substitute with the provisions desired by McSweeney.

"I'm bewildered at your opinion of judges," Baker told the committee at the opening of his argument.

"You're wrong in your ideas about what judges do when they sentence a prisoner," he added. That was in answer to a statement by Senator Robert A. Taft, (R) of Cincinnati that judges spend little time deciding what sentences they will hand down to prisoners.

"The only way to get judges who can be trusted is to trust them," Baker argued.

BAKER'S WARNING

Baker warned the committee that increased powers for a parole board would add to convicts' distrust.

"Over in the Ohio penitentiary tonight there isn't a man serving more than his minimum sentence who doesn't believe he is being unfairly treated. The place is seething with discontent and suspicion because prisoners feel that the very agencies set up for their protection have deserted them," he added.

Baker and others backing the original bill complained that the parole board has so little time for considering all cases before it that 500 or more convicts already have served past their minimum sentence without having had a hearing for parole.

Baker also charged that a prisoner whose case is heard by a parole board has no opportunity to answer his accusers.

Under McSweeney's plan a bipartisan board of four members would be in complete command of paroles and could parole a prisoner at any time after he had served his statutory minimum sentence, less time for good behavior allowed in the Ackerman bill also a part of the new state program.

Admitting that he wishes to get deserving prisoners out of the penitentiaries and in the care of skilled probation officers, McSweeney said he saw in his plan one way of relieving both overcrowding and over-expense.

HOOVER TALKS TO ISLANDERS

President Gives Porto Ricans High Hopes For Future Prosperity, Happiness

SAN JUAN, P. R., March 24.—Speaking at the economic banquet of the islanders and high rats in their future prosperity and happiness under the American flag was expressed by President Hoover today in an address to the Porto Rican legislature.

Mr. Hoover's speech to the native congress was the culmination of his two-day visit here, during which he made a cursory inspection of island conditions and discussed them with Gov. Theodore Roosevelt.

Porto Rico has been particularly hard hit economically. The hurricane of three years ago wrought great devastation throughout the island and before there was any appreciable recovery from that catastrophe the islanders were hit again by the world-wide depression.

But these ravages will be repaired by time, the President told the legislature.

"Discouraging as these disasters may be for the moment," he said, "we know they are but passing events in our history; that with the courage of your people and under the benevolent institutions which have been built here, their effects will be overcome and the nation and this island will resume their march to prosperity and progress."

INVESTIGATION OF NEW YORK NOW ORDERED

State Legislature Demands Investigation into Walker's Dominion

MAYOR WILL FIGHT

Copy of Charges are Forwarded to Jimmy in West

ALBANY, N. Y., March 24.—The assembly of the state legislature early today joined with the senate, ordering a sweeping investigation of the government of New York City.

After the senate had passed a resolution calling for the inquiry by a strict party vote of 26 to 24 the assembly followed with a favorable vote of 76 to 70. The assembly vote was also on a strict party line.

No approval by Governor Roosevelt is necessary to make the resolution effective.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Mayor James J. Walker's aides were mapping out a line of defense for him today against the charges leveled at him and his administration in the dramatic crusade of civic and church leaders to bring about a sweeping investigation of the entire government of New York City.

COUNTER FIGHT

When the Mayor returns from his vacation at Palm Springs Cal., in about ten days, he will have at his disposal wads of material designed to be the basis for the heavy counter attack that Walker is expected to let loose against his critics.

Although Mayor Walker has been "wisceraching" off and on concerning the threatened inquiry, it is reported in Tammany Hall circles that secretly he is "burning up" over the charges and that he will come back home with "fire in his eye." He is not going to be removed from office without a fight.

Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to the mayor, ten days ago issued a scolding statement defending the Mayor and lashing his critics, has begun preparing material for the Walker counter blast. He has called upon the heads of departments mentioned in the charges filed by the City Affairs Committee with Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt to furnish the Mayor's office at once all information that would be valuable to the Mayor in preparing an answer.

Governor Roosevelt has sent a verified copy of the charges lodged with him by the Rev. John Haynes Holmes and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise in behalf of the City Affairs Committee to Mayor Walker in Palm Springs, Cal., with a request for an answer from the Mayor at the earliest possible time after his return to New York.

PREMONITION OF DANGER ON VIKING FELT

Story of Explosion Fatal To Many Told When Rescue Ship Reaches Port

CAUSED BY POWDER

Missing Man Suggested Painting Danger Sign

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 24.—Less than a minute before a powder blast wrecked the sealing ship Viking and sent more than a score of men to their death, L. Varick Frissell, missing leader of the future expedition into the far north, had suggested putting up a warning sign on the ship's powder magazine.

Frissell's startling premonition of disaster was revealed here today with the arrival of the rescue steamer Saguna bringing thirteen survivors of the ill-starred expedition back to civilization.

A graphic story of the disaster was pieced together from the stories told by various survivors, who included Harry Sargent, young Boston explorer who was sitting with Frissell and A. G. Fearnot, cameraman who also is missing and feared dead, when the blast occurred.

According to Sargent, Frissell's last words were these: "I am no artist, but I am going to paint a danger sign and hang it up in front of the powder magazine."

Hardly had the words left his lips, Sargent said, when the Viking lurched and hit an ice pan. The next second the explosion occurred.

"We were sitting in the cabin making plans for the next day," Sargent said. "Frissell and Fearnot were arranging a strip of film. The ship was moving slowly. Frissell had been speaking of the danger of powder and then made his mark about putting up a danger sign."

"The Viking lurched as it struck an ice pan and almost immediately came the upheaval that tore the whole stern of the ship away, flinging men and material in all directions."

Sargent's miraculous escape was explained by the fact that the stern post of the Viking intervened between the chair in which he was sitting and the powder magazine in which a ton of explosives were stored. The post broke the force of the explosion and flung him out of the vessel onto an ice pan while the others, he said, "were blown into eternity."

Two separate explosions occurred, the survivors revealed. One blast swept the starboard quarter and the other those on the port side. Three members of the crew, quartered in the engine room, lost their lives when they were flung into the machinery and carried down into the icy sub-Arctic waters as the engines slid into the depths.

The survivors expressed the belief that Frissell and Fearnot were killed instantly.

"Nothing was seen of either of my companions after the disaster," Sargent said. "I found myself on an ice-pan and in the glare of the flames from the ship I saw Clayton King, the wireless operator, who had been blown through the side of the ship."

NECESSARY THAT WELFARE PROGRAM IS INAUGURATED

COLUMBUS, —Editorial insist that the general assembly, controlled by a majority of opposite political faith, translate into action the penal and welfare program of Ohio's Democratic governor makes it plain that the press is determined that political differences, which have prevented progress over a long period of years, shall no longer block sound executive proposals.

The attitude manifested toward Governor George White's recommendations by legislators not of his political party also indicates that there is to be no repetition of the policy of parsimony and procrastination through which hostile lawmakers defeated similar reforms advocated by other Democratic governors. Having indicated a desire for a detailed plan, the Republicans who dominate the legislature received it from the governor last week. And newspapers, voicing general approval of Governor White's ideas, admonished all hands in the assembly to set about the task of financing them.

Majority leaders reflected a purpose of working together with the Democratic minority to solve the problems which the new administration found on its doorstep as a result of political bickering or inattention going back for nearly two decades.

"The legislative leaders no longer can pass the buck to Governor White on the welfare rehabilitation and expansion matter," observes The Columbus Dispatch. "He has called their hand. For two months and a half, they have evaded this highly important issue on the flimsy excuse that it was an administration program and that they must wait for a detailed and itemized agenda from him. Now he has laid it in their laps and they must proceed or seek further excuses for procrastination."

The Columbus-Citizen comments: "If, says Governor White in his most recent message to the legislature, Ohio's welfare building program can be financed out of current revenues, by means not inconsistent with sound principles of taxation, that should be done promptly."

"But," the governor adds, "if no such means can be found by you, I hereby renew my request that there be submitted to a vote of the people a proposal that bonds be issued in such amounts and at such times as shall insure the realization of the plan." The governor's stand is eminently right. Whatever the method of financing, it is up to the legislature to do something promptly. We agree with the governor's conclusion that: "The people of Ohio are no longer willing to permit this matter to drift. Intelligence and humanity unite in a demand for action."

"It remains now for the house and senate either to accept Mr. White's plan or adopt one of their own." The Cleveland Plain Dealer points out. "The urgency of the situation remains. Quick action is needed in one direction or another. Antiquated, overcrowded prisons and asylums; insanitary fire hazards; buildings housing more than twice their proper capacity. Governor White passes the issue back to the legislature. That is where the primary responsibility rests."

The Cincinnati Enquirer contributes to the discussion: "Governor White's pronouncement that Ohio must eliminate some of the causes of prison crowding, and enlarge its probation and parole systems; that it must not hopelessly resign itself to a continued and everlasting building program, should be taken to heart by the general assembly. Bills now before the lawmakers would act to reduce our prison population and to prevent future increase at the present alarming rate."

Public reaction, like that of editorial commentators, suggested that about nine million dollars be spent in the present biennium and twenty five million dollars over a period of ten years to put an end to the inadequacy and neglect that have emphasized in the Ohio penitentiary fire costing 320 lives and convict traceable to the do-nothing policy of previous legislatures.

NEWS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

COLUMBUS, O.—Only two more weeks and the members of the thirty-ninth General Assembly will recess on April 10th, returning on Monday, April 27th, to act on taxation, the date of final adjournment being problematical. The Old Age Pension bill has been recommended for passage by the insurance committee of the House. Under its provisions persons over 70 years of age with no means of support, would receive a pension of $25.00 per month. Claims would be made to county departments of welfare where they would be investigated. The bill provides that pension costs would be borne one-half out of the state's general revenue fund. The cost of maintaining the system would be approximately $4,000,000 annually and would provide for four times the number of inmates at present in almshouses in Ohio, said to be 5,000. The cost would be less than double the present expenditure for relief of the aged poor.

At a recent meeting of county clerks of Ohio, held in one of the Capital City hotels, Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown was an honored guest and the principal speaker following an excellent repast served at 6:30 o'clock in the evening. Secretary Brown talked on uniformity in filing bills of sales in the offices of clerks and made a number of helpful and worthwhile suggestions. He was followed by Hon. Guy F. Chilcote of Newark, who made an excellent talk along the same lines. Hon. Charles E. King, Clerk of Courts of Franklin Co. presided and suggested that a statewide meeting of all county clerks in Ohio be held in the near future.

Columbus hostesses have been enjoying a lucrative business the past several weeks due to the fact that numerous conventions and meetings have been held here. There's been plenty doing in the way of entertainment, last week at the large theatres celebrating its third birthday anniversary with state and city officials participating. Then the Irish had their inning when several thousand honored St. Patrick's Day with feast and song all over the city. The Dog Show at the big Auditorium also drew large audiences. Of the half hundred organizations meeting in the city the past week, the Ohio Gas and Oil Men's Association drew the largest attendance, over 600 being registered.

They're biting at the lake, and the old urge comes upon many of the amateur piscatorial sportsmen in the service of the Buckeye State with the result that they dig out rod and reel and begin overhauling all tackle preparatory to an onslaught on bass, blue gills and croppies beginning with the half holiday on Saturdays. Fishermen are required to take out a license at the office of the county clerk, the fee being $1.00 with ten cents additional for the official. The season for bass closes April 30th, and none may be taken until June 16th. It is

PIG INSURANCE IS NOW EXPLAINED

With the farrowing season getting well under way, there are a few precautions which may be profitably observed by hog feeders throughout the County First extra care in providing sanitary quarters and sanitary lots are of chief value in preventing hazardous parasites and diseases. Rations fed in creeps to suckling pigs, should economies in getting these pigs off to an early start. Rations composed of 40 pounds Corn, 40 pounds ground wheat, 20 pounds Trinity mixture or 30 pounds ground corn, 30 pounds ground barley, 20 pounds ground Oats and 20 pounds of Trinity mixture are well suited to making economic pork. Third, forage crops will be short.

Fourth, it is impractical to carry an investment represented by the sow, over head on the sow and labor connected with caring for the sow and then neglect treating the pig crop as insurance against Hog Cholera. Hog Cholera, the greatest hazard to the swine industry, exacts each year a most severe and in most instances unwarranted penalty from corn belt farmers.

Immunization administered throughout a competent veterinarian is a reliable safe guard against Hog Cholera outbreaks. The severe Hog Cholera outbreaks appear to run in cycles. During the last fifty years, there has been three Hog Cholera outbreaks which have swept over the hog producing States, exacting staggering losses. The worst of these was in 1896-1897 and the last occurred in 1913-1914, 17 years latter.

STATE CHAMBER COMMERCE COMMENDS GOVERNOR WHITE

COLUMBUS, March 24 — "We commend Governor White for his adoption of a general policy of reducing expenditures in the departments which are under his immediate control." Thus the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, representing business interests of the state, took official notice of the recent economy government in a report just issued.

At the same time the Chamber condemned bookkeeping methods inherited by Governor White from the preceding administration and abandoned by officials under him as soon as he took office. Criticism of confusing accounting systems recalled the fact that the previous administration had promised so to simplify governmental bookkeeping that any taxpayer might be able to understand from day to day just how the state stood financially. To this end it spent many thousands of dollars installing a new department operated at huge expense and since junked by Governor White as inefficient and extravagant.

Complaint was voiced by the Chamber in these words: "There is something radically wrong with the accounting and budget system of a state when a committee of highly representative and trained citizens, such as served the Ohio Chamber of Commerce in its analysis of the budget, being advised by competent statistical and accounting authorities, cannot find out how the state stands financially."

The report continued: "In doing this work, the Ohio Chamber of Commerce has received excellent co-operation from the director of finance and the bureau of accounts and control. We regret that we are unable to report the same degree of co-operation from the state auditor."

The director of finance thus commended is Howard L. Bevis, who has been engaged, since he was appointed by Governor White, in attempting to unravel the intricacies of the financial system turned over by the former administration together with its deficit of nine million dollars.

The "Ninth Executive Budget" mandate of the voters in the late election, and providing for expenditures of millions of dollars in excess of expected income, was severely criticized by the Chamber in submitting a proposed economy budget for consideration by the legislature.

In this connection the Chamber said: "The Ohio Chamber of Commerce views with concern the action of the various departments of our state government and of the trustees of our educational institutions in putting before former Governor Cooper for incorporation in the Ninth Executive Budget departmental and institutional budgets for the present biennium representing increases generally ranging from 6 per cent to as high as 48 per cent over the last biennium."

The inflated and unbalanced budget under which the preceding administration proposed the state should be operated this year and next was recognized as unworkable and extravagant by Governor White and his associates. If it had been accepted and state monies had been expended in accordance with it, as their predecessors intended, disbursements would have exceeded revenues to such an extent that another huge deficit would have been incurred.

Rejecting it, the White administration has been compiling new figures and revising governmental plans to guide them in their endeavor to restore the business-like policy of operating within income.

Further salary increases, payroll additions and expansion of costly functions were contemplated in the Cooper budget which was prepared with the thought that the former administration was to be re-elected to office.

Expense Record Is Made By U. S.

WASHINGTON.—Establishing a new peace-time record for spending, the United States government probably will require in excess of $1,300,000,000 during the fiscal year which ends next June, judging from figures available today.

When President Hoover submitted his budget to Congress last December, it was estimated that total government costs would be $1,014,000,000, or an increase of $20,000,000 over the fiscal year 1930.

Instead of a $20,000,000 increase for the entire year there has been a gain in expenditures of $226,000,000 in a little over eight and a half months. Higher costs will continue through the remainder of the year, indicating expenditures of possibly more than $300,000,000 over 1930.

There have been decreases in costs resulting from interest and smaller refunds of tax receipts. However, these items have been far offset by the $69,000,000 boost in costs pertaining to operation of the federal farm board, $30,000,000 greater postal deficit, $112,000,000 for adjusted service certificate loans charged against ordinary receipts and other items.

On the other hand receipts are slumping off so seriously as to put the treasury in a dilemma. The budget estimate put total receipts for the 1931 fiscal year at $3,864,090,000, a reduction of $343,000,000. For the entire year the cut will be substantially greater.

It is now comparatively certain that unless taxes are increased there will be a large deficit for the year ending June 30, 1932. The budget estimates was for a surplus of $30,600,000 for that year and for a deficit of $190,076,000.

B L A M E IMPULSE FOR MAN'S DEATH

SAN FRANCISCO.—That Emory Winship, San Francisco millionaire who killed himself Saturday, took his own life because he feared that he was losing his mind and "had impulses to take two or more lives" was revealed here today by a letter he wrote to a friend before he shot himself to death.

Winship killed himself just as his second wife, the former Miss Dorothy Lamar Blount, of Macon, Ga., was about to enter their apartment to take away some of her personal effects. They had been estranged and Mrs. Winship was going to take her belongings to their estate on the San Francisco peninsula.

WALKER LAUGHS AT MOVIE IDEA

PALM SPRINGS, Calif.—Repeated rumors that Mayor James J. Polly Moran will play the lead and Al Capone will play opposite her, and it isn't going to be a picture at all—it's to be a four-ring circus."

Mayor Walker attended church here Sunday. The dapper mayor wore a fawn-colored suit, a shirt embellished with flowers and carried a stick in keeping with his general ensemble.

"FIRST FURNISH YOUR HOME"

"IT TELLS WHAT YOU ARE"

We come to the last, but by no means the least, word in our inspiring slogan. What, if any, is the particular significance of that innocent little "are?"

We know, of course, that "are" is in the present tense, as distinguished from "were" in the past and "will be" in the future. So "are" means that our home gives other people an impression of our position RIGHT NOW.

Perhaps when our home furnishings were new they were attractive, comfortable, convenient, as judged by the standards of those days. But that does not necessarily mean that they still retain those qualities. Styles change and each period brings new improvements in beauty and construction. Furniture that was "good enough" then will not create the right impression today. Your home tells what you ARE.

Perhaps you plan to get better furniture "a little later." It may be that you have been postponing these important purchases because other things made their appeal. But callers can't judge you by what you hope to do—they only see your surroundings now. Again it is the present that counts.

If you have been putting off the selection of attractive new furnishings, delay no longer. You need them now. Our modern method of buying lets you have what you want without waiting. Ask us about it.

As stated above, we have come to the last word of our National Home Furnishings Program slogan. We trust that you have enjoyed reading them.

Now, you folks that have always said that you wanted to "see America first," here's your opportunity. It's an opportunity to take a 7-500 mile tour of the U. S., and a chance to win $1,000 "pin money." There will be 24 people in the U. S. that will win this tour and will receive cash awards from $1,000 down to $150. In addition to these prizes, 200 other people will win cash awards from $50 down to $5. Some people in this community may be winners of prizes. It costs absolutely not one cent to enter and there are no strings tied to it. Just drop down to our store and we'll be glad to present you with an entry blank. Then, you'll begin to get a heap of fun in re-styling your home. We're ready for you so come in at once and get your blank.

A lady called at our store Saturday and, looking over our stock of linoleum and felt base floor coverings, said that she had visited several stores and that we had the nicest assortment of any place that she had been in. "Them" surely were kind words, but we do have some nice patterns right now.

Today ends the 11th month for the two tanks of Pyrofax Gas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White, New Holland, and they are still going. It has cost the White family only $2.54 1-2 per month to do their baking and cooking for the past 11 months. As you may know, there is no natural gas in New Holland, but that makes no difference to Mrs. White, she is using an Estate Gas Range with Pyrofax gas. Why bother with gasoline or kerosene when you may have a gas range in your kitchen, no matter where you live?

Two little boys recently entered the dental offices of Doc. Phillips. One of them said to Doc: "I want a tooth took out and I don't want no gas, 'cause I'm in a hurry." To this Doc. said: "That's a brave boy. Which tooth is it?" Then the brave little man said, "Show him your tooth, Albert."

We just must have another spasm of Civic Pride and here goes. This time, we want to call your attention to that up-to-the-minute drug store of Homer Gleaddell, in the Masonic Temple. It's just as good looking as any city store.

And, while you are looking at it, just glance up at the awning. It was supplied by the Columbus Tent & Awning Co., of which we are local agents. If you are thinking of new awnings for this summer, just give us a ring. We'll send an experienced man to see you and when your awning is delivered, it will be hung by experienced men.

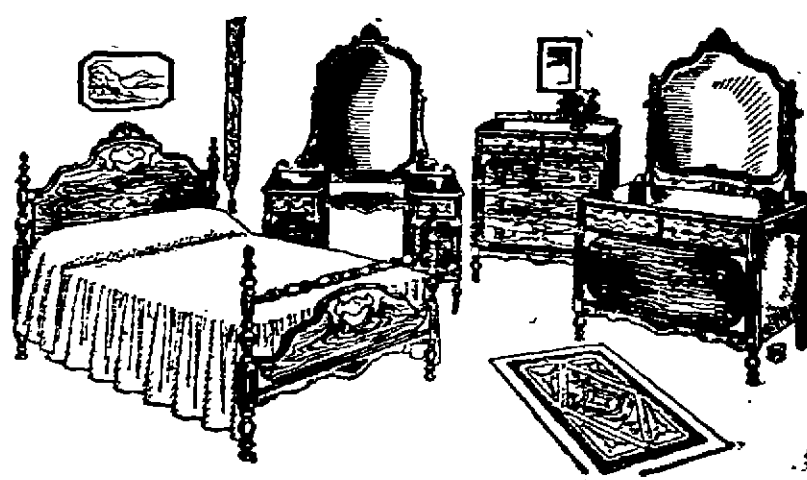

If the housewives of this community would place rug pads under their rugs, the rugs would not only last much longer, but they would be much more comfortable to walk upon. A newcomer into Circleville asked us about these pads. She was afraid of moth and did not like to pay the price at which rug pads usually sell. So, we sold her a pad that is 1-4 inches thick and is guaranteed against moth infection and yet sells for only $6.40. These pads will make a velvet rug feel like a thick Wilton. Drop in the store and see them.

Speaking of rugs reminds us that house-cleaning time is just around the corner. It's the time of the year when friend Husband has some important business deal on his hands, and he makes himself scarce around the home. Yes, we plead guilty, too. But, nevertheless, it's the time of year when new rugs are usually purchased. For that reason, we have been receiving new stock almost daily, all based upon the new low prices. You're invited to drop in and see our stock.

A report has reached this office that Mrs. Frank Barnhill was recently called to her kitchen door by an alarm. Upon investigating, she found a tramp, asking for a hand-out. Mrs. B. said to him: "And how long were you a prisoner?" The tramp replied that it was five years. To this, Mrs. B. said, "But the war didn't last five years." The tramp came back with this: "Who's talking about the war?"
